

.THE STUDY.

— THE 1STDIBS BLOG —

15 Entertainment Rooms That Were Designed for a Good Time

These luxuriously fun spaces were made for watching the big game — or for playing your own games.

SHARE

TWEET

PIN

EMAIL

Fox-Nahem Associates turned the living room of this Southampton, New York, beach house into the ultimate entertainment space with this cozy conversation pit for fireside chats and movie nights.

Photo by Peter Murdock

Timothy Godbold created a games nook in the Sag Harbor, New York, home of two avid backgammon players. “We were able to custom create a board with a beautiful navy blue color,” Godbold says, adding, “with the space’s dazzling light, it’s easy to pass the time playing for hours.” He chose a palette of charcoals, navy and sand. “It looked like colors and fabrics I would wear as well as sit on.”

Photo by Rikki Snyder

This communal hang-out space by Tamara Eaton is located at the top of an Upper East Side apartment building in New York City. “The bronze details were the starting theme to make the space feel warm and give a slightly vintage vibe, however the articulation of furniture and color is clearly modern,” Eaton says. The Blatts Billiards pool table has a custom blue felt top, and the carpet is a cowhide print by FLOR. Julian Chichester created the wingback chairs and the bronze side table is by Made Goods. The artwork is by Gray Malin.

Photo by Jeffrey Kilmer

Achille Salvagni designed the screening room in this Southampton, New York, estate as a space where the whole family can indulge in their love for movies. The custom lounge chairs are upholstered in Dedar's Alexandre fabric, while the walls are covered in Dedar's Chambray. The Salvagni-designed Angel sconces are part of an edition of 20, available through Maison Gerard.

Photo by Gianni G Franchellucci

At this Carden Cunietti-designed vacation home in Cap d'Antibes, France, the billiards room is designated for use by adults at night (the kids have their own playroom). The space features the clients' favorite color, purple, and their collection of antique maps hangs on the back wall. Carden Cunietti designed the wood and Plexiglas tables, and the chairs are by India Mahdavi.

Photo by Alexander James

Sara Gilbane designed this sofa to run the length and width of the room to maximize seating capacity in this Rye, New York, room. The woven rush chair at the backgammon table is by Hollywood at Home and the sconces are by Vaughan Lighting. “It is a great spot to sit and read during the day, play games at night or sit by the fire,” Gilbane says.

Photo by Zach Desart
